FOREWORD

The Army Aviation Flight Information Bulletin (FIB) is an official source of air operational data covering Active Army, Army National Guard and Army Reserve aviation activities. The FIB is published quarterly on the USAASA web site located at www.usaasa.belvoir.army.mil. Reproduction and distribution of the FIB is authorized. This FIB expires 30 June 2001.

Installation commanders are responsible for the submission of changes in airfield conditions, facilities, services, air navigational aids and other matters affecting operations at air facilities serving their installations, by the most expeditious means to: (1) assigned FAA tie-in Flight Service Station, and/or (2) Director, U.S. Army Aeronautical Services Agency, ATTN.: ATAS-AI, 9325 Gunston Road, Suite N319, Fort Belvoir, VA 22060-5582. For Europe, Africa and the Middle East contact Commander, USAASD-E, ATTN.: ATAS-AD, Unit 29243, APO AE 09102. # WHO WANTS TO KNOW?

Each edition of the Flight Information Bulletin will contain selected questions received from the field. USAASA welcomes your questions and comments and will provide answers each quarter.

Question: What requirements are associated with a contact approach?

Answer: You must be on an IFR flight plan with ATC authorization, clear of clouds, at least 1 mile visibility, and a reasonable expectation to continue to the destination airport in those conditions to request a contact approach. A contact approach is an approach procedure that may be used by a pilot in lieu of conducting a standard or special IAP to an airport, and when cleared by ATC will include an "at or below altitude" where the pilot will transition the contact approach, and an alternate procedure to follow if in the controllers judgment, weather conditions may make completion of the approach impractical. Pilots are cautioned that a contact approach clearance issued in domestic or international airspace is not intended to allow operation to an airport without a published and functioning IAP. Nor is it intended for an aircraft to conduct an IAP to one airport and when "in the clear" discontinue that approach and proceed to another airport. Radar service will be terminated and the pilot assumes responsibility for terrain clearance, additionally if visibility deteriorated to below 1 mile or cannot otherwise continue the approach, you must advise ATC immediately and execute or receive alternate missed approach procedures. ## FLIP WORLD

- DOD FLIP ANNUAL SURVEY The DOD FLIP Annual Survey will be distributed to all Army FLIP accounts within the next few months. AR 95-2, Chapter 12 mandates an annual validation of all Automatic Initial Distribution (AID) accounts. Unit FLIP account managers must review their accounts for accuracy and return the survey in the enclosed self addressed envelope by the suspense date located on the first page of the survey. Corrections or amendments to unit AID requirements must be annotated on the actual survey account listing. Unit account managers must ensure the quantities listed on their product listing are in compliance with the authorized quantities prescribed in AR 95-2, Chapter 12. Failure to comply with the survey requirements will result in account suspension.
- AUTOMATIC INITIAL DISTRIBUTION (AID) SHIPPING DISCREPANCIES Unit account managers must report all shipping discrepancies to MSG Shykes (MSG Rodrigues for European accounts). Unit account managers have a 10-day window in which to make the notification for DOD FLIP products. The notification window begins three days before the effective date of the product and ends six days after the effective date of the product. Notification for Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) products cannot be initiated until the effective date of the product. Unit account managers must provide MSG Shykes/Rodrigues with their FLIP DODAAC, the missing or short product (by NIMA Reference Number), quantity they are supposed to receive, quantity they actually received, point of contact, commercial phone number, and a FEDEX deliverable address.
- SUPPLEMENTAL ORDERS Unit account managers may place supplemental orders of FLIP and FLIP related products in order to support training and/or contingency operations outside their normal area of operation. Quantities ordered must be IAW AR 95-2, Chapter 12. FLIP requirements for training exercises and contingency operations should be made at the earliest planning phase. All supplemental orders are filled and shipped by DSCR. Early submission of orders will significantly increase the likelihood of receiving requested products as DSCR has a limited shelf stock of FLIP and FLIP related products. Once their stock is depleted, there is no way of obtaining products through Defense Logistic Agency (DLA) channels. Orders shall be made with the appropriate Army FLIP manager.

- ACCOUNT PRODUCT LISTINGS In order to effectively manage FLIP accounts, unit account managers should have a current product listing for their account. Product listings are obtained by contacting the appropriate Army FLIP manager. Unit account managers should request listings after any change submission to their AID. It is recommended that unit account managers place a request for their product listing at least every six months regardless of whether or not a change had been made to their account.
- DLA FORM 1832 REQUIREMENT (MANDATORY) In April 1998, the National Imagery and Mapping Agency (NIMA) transferred inventory control and distribution responsibility for GI&S (Geospatial Information and Services) products (commonly called maps) to the Defense Logistics Agency. Product Center 9, Defense Supply Center Richmond (DSCR-JN) is now the inventory manager for these products. DSCR-JN is building a database containing up-to-date customer addresses to reduce the amount of return mail currently occurring. The vehicle for establishing this database is the DLA Form 1832. Account managers can obtain the DLA Form 1832 by accessing the USAASA web site (www.usaasa.belvoir.army.mil), selecting "LINKS" followed by "DSCR Maps". Print the DLA Form 1832, fill in the required data, and FAX the form to DSCR, ATTN: PC9, DSN 695-6510 COM (804) 279-6510. Additionally, FAX the form to USAASA, ATTN: MSG Shykes DSN 656-4409 COM (703) 806-4409. All units are required to have a DLA Form 1832 on file with DSCR. Failure to complete this form and return it will result in the termination of your account. Contact MSG Shykes at DSN 656-4870 or COM (703) 806-4870 for questions pertaining to the DLA Form 1832.
- ADDRESS UPDATES Units must notify HQ USAASA of address changes. Address changes are facilitated by annotating the change on the DLA Form 1832 and submitting it to the proper agencies. Proper addresses are essential to the distribution process. Submit changes of address to: Germany- rosemary.rodrigues@hq.hqusareur.army.mil; Korea – wahligs@usfk.korea.army.mil.
- DIRECT CONTACT WITH NIMA / DLA Units will not contact NIMA / DLA directly when errors in FLIP distribution occur. The correct procedure is to contact MSG Shykes at DSN 656-4870 or COM (703) 806-4870. For ENAME accounts contact MSG Rodrigues at DSN 314-373-6426. They will make the necessary contacts and notifications to resolve your issue. If you fail to receive a shipment, receive an incomplete shipment, or a partial shipment you should notify MSG Shykes or MSG Rodrigues as quickly as possible. The preferred method of notification is via e-mail at shykeske@belvoir.army.mil or rosemary.rodrigues@hq.hqusareur.army.mil.
   State your AC account number, what you are missing, how many you should have received, a POC, a COM phone number and a FEDEX deliverable address.

NOTAM CORNER

Improve DINS Security

The Defense Internet NOTAM Service (DINS) has implemented several changes over the past six months to improve the quality of NOTAM information and improve security. Recently, the websites for accessing DINS have changed from http://www.notams.jcs.mil. The same change was also implemented at the DINS secondary site at https://www.notams.jcs.mil. This modification reflects the introduction of a Secure Socket Layer (SSL) to provide an added level of protection by notifying users of possible third party viewing or diversions. Users accessing DINS Query Sites for the first time will get several security screens as part of the certificate process required to view NOTAMs. Once completed, users should not have to repeat the process and service should be the same as before the SSL was introduced.

Duplicate NOTAMs

The DINS has continued to expand on the amount of information available. Users should realize that DINS provides all NOTAM information about a location entered in the U.S. NOTAM database maintained by the FAA. This is "unedited" information, which can create conditions where duplicate NOTAMs of different series exist. Locations could list related domestic (distance) and military NOTAMs or domestic and international NOTAMs. In some isolated instances, it is possible to have three virtually identical NOTAMs reflecting military, domestic and international formats.

The following example represents an actual instance of three different series for the same NOTAM for one location:

PAR AVBL 1900-0645 DLY 27 FEB 19:00 UNTIL 02 MAR 06:45

PAR AVBL 27 FEB 19:00 UNTIL 02 MAR 06:45 1900/0645 DLY

PAR HOURS OF SERVICE ARE 27 FEB 08:10 UNTIL 02 MAR 21:30 MON1900/0215 TUES1900/0130 WED-THUR1900/0445 FRI1830/2130

The first NOTAM is a domestic format which depending on the location generates an international NOTAM. The U.S. military in turn put out a military NOTAM reflecting the same information. All three of these NOTAMs are correct based upon existing legacy NOTAMs systems in use and the implementation of DINS. The civil NOTAM system along with NOTAM summaries relies on edited information. In the case of the civil NOTAM system, the same level of information is available but separate queries must be performed to generate information on the different series of NOTAMs. Aircrews requesting information through a FSS must specifically request military NOTAMs. The DINS provides complete, unedited (though possibly redundant) NOTAM information including those listed in Chapter 1 of the FAA NOTICES TO AIRMEN handbook.

Contractions

Many pilots and installations are viewing civil NOTAMs through DINS for the first time. Domestic NOTAMs may use contractions that are not found in any military publication. Use FAAO-7340.1 for a list of civil and ICAO contractions which can be found at http://www.faa.gov/atpubs/CNT/CNTHME.htm. DINS automatically expands many contractions found in military and international NOTAMs into a plain text format using "Q Codes" which aren't used in domestic (distance) NOTAMs.

Form Change for Users with NOTAM Input Capability

AFUM 11-208/AR 95-10 is being revised to reflect the implementation of DINS. As part of the revision, part of DD Form 2349 is being added to the "comeback copy" generated when a NOTAM is sent. Local airfield managers may authorize the use of this form in lieu of the DD Form 2349, NOTAM Control Log. Please provide all feedback relating to this change to the DoD NOTAM Division Chief, Lt. Col. Michael Stiers, USAF, at mike.stiers@faa.gov.

The Army POC for information or training on the U.S. military NOTAM system is MSG Alan Sieber at DSN 994-4205, COML: 703-904-4484, or allan.sieber@faa.gov.

YOU SHOULD KNOW THAT...

• Diverse Departures The United States Army Aeronautical Services Detachment – Europe (USAASD-E) and the Army Flight Operations Detachment (AFOD) frequently receive questions from pilots when they encounter the term "Diverse Departures not Authorized." Pilots are advised to read the concise explanation of, instrument departures located in paragraph 5-2-6 in the FAA Aeronautical Information Manual (AIM). Other references to consult include:

Diverse Departures: What are They and Why Do I Care?

http://www-afsc.saia.af.mil/magazine/htdocs/maymag98/dvdepart.htm TM 95-226, Terminal Instrument Procedures (TERPS).
AR 95-1, Flight Regulations.

When an instrument approach is initially developed for an airport, the procedure designer also does an assessment for departures. If an aircraft turns in any direction from a runway, and is clear of obstacles, that runway meets what is called diverse departure criteria and no Departure Procedure will be developed. At busier airports, there may be a need to develop Departure Procedures to increase efficiency and reduce communications and departure delays as opposed to obstacle avoidance.

If there is not an IFR departure procedure published, climb runway heading to 400 feet above airfield elevation, turn in the shortest direction to your first filed point, and remain clear of terrain and obstructions as long as you climb at 200 feet/nm. The controller gives you a diverse departure when he states "cleared to (destination) airport as filed."

Army crews should use appropriate caution, but they are not limited by the prohibition on diverse departures mandated by the Air Force Instruction. If you see the words, "Diverse Departures not authorized," Army crews should consider the information listed in the AIM and make the following checks:

1. Each pilot, before departing an airport on an IFR flight should consider the type of terrain and other obstacles on or near the departure airport.

- 2. Comply with nonstandard IFR minimums and departure procedures, if available. Note: The Army authorizes use of host nation and Jeppesen SIDS without a specific conformance review. Pilots operating under 14 CFR Part 91 are strongly encouraged to file and fly a Departure Procedure at night, during marginal Visual Meteorological Conditions and Instrument Meteorological Conditions, when one is available.
- 3. Look for circling minimums on the IAP, and do not begin the turn until reaching the circling minimums altitude.
- 4. Look at charted obstructions on the plan view, and plan your departure turns to avoid charted obstacles and terrain.
- 5. Always, follow the specific ATC Departure instructions.

Pilots must be aware that diverse departure criteria is based solely on the aircrafts ability to operate within the standard departure envelope for that specific category aircraft and DOES NOT consider degraded climb capability due to equipment malfunction, terminal aid to navigation degradation, or special aircrew qualification requirements. The AIM indicates that obstacle clearance responsibility rests with the pilot when he/she chooses to climb in visual conditions in lieu of flying a departure procedure and/or depart under increased takeoff minima rather than fly the departure procedure. Consideration of these factors are the responsibility of the Pilot-in-Command.

• Portable Flight Planning Software (PFPS) and Falcon View The Mission Planning System Support Facility, located at Hill, AFB in Utah, has received phone calls from users who are loading NIMA's Falcon View 3.1.1 on Mission Planning Systems. DO NOT DO THIS. This tool was only designed to view and print NIMA products for users that do not have PFPS.

Since NIMA Falcon View is not designed for Mission Planning, IT CAN NOT EDIT ROUTES. If someone approaches you with a Falcon View NIMA 3.1.1 disk DON'T INSTALL IT ON YOUR MISSION PLANNING COMPUTERS. You can use some things on Falcon View NIMA 3.1.1, but you are better off waiting for the one in PFPS 3.1.1 which is designed for your needs. The Label on Falcon View NIMA 3.1.1 states that it does not support Route Planning. Do Not Install it on PFPS 3.01 & 3.1 Mission Planning Systems.

PFPS 3.1.1 with Falcon View 3.1.1 and Sky View are available through the Air Force TODO system. For more information on Falcon View visit the home page @ http://www.mpssf.hill.af.mil/. The Army home page for information on Falcon View is @ http://www.usaasa.belvoir.army.mil/. NOS/NACO On 1 October 2000, the National Oceanographic Survey (NOS) stopped printing FLIP products. This service has been picked up by the FAA from the National Aeronautical Charting Office (NACO). You should not notice any significant change other than the "published by" on the introduction page stating that it is now from FAA.

STANDARD ROUTES

Routings have been developed to take operational and control procedures into account by printing control strips for Air Navigation and exchanging data between control centers by means of Electronic Data Processing (EDP) units. This standardization of route data occurs in item 15 of the flight plan. This makes all information available quickly and optimally. Route data in item 15 of the flight plan, which deviates from Standard Routes, may require manual processing of the flight plan which could cause delay for the availability of the flight plan data. Data on the standard routes, stored in the EDP unit of the Deutsche Flugsicherung GmbH (DFS), will be distributed as a brochure and floppy disk at a yearly subscription rate by the DFS.
